University suggest that enough blue
light can be harmful to our eyes. These simple tips can help prevent blue light
intake.*

Blue light can cause:

- Eye strain
- Irritated eyes
- Dry eyes
- Watery eyes
- Retina damage

Stopping eye sensitivity to light can be done by limiting screen time, wearing blue light reduction glasses, switching your devices to low blue light mode and installing blue light reducing lighting in your house.

SLEEP

Getting quality, deep sleep can:

- Improve your mood
- Boost immune systems
- Create a healthy circadian rhythm (body clock)

"Blue light suppresses the body's release of melatonin"

- sleepfoundation.org

"Artificial light can delay the timing of the circadian clock and thus sleep"

- US National Library of Medicine

*Switching to low blue lights in the bedroom can help you
sleep
faster,
deeper and
better!
